RE: Suggestions

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Earl F. Truss, I recently seen the article about the proposed changes that my be made in the Supreme court about the standard they could be used in motions that will be considered in re-considerations filed. I would suggest in making your decision, that you would consider the fact that sometimes a defendant or plaintiff may have to rehash part of the same argument because of a recent change in law or a recent case that may impact the courts decision in whether or not to grant the motion. I only suggest that you should consider leaving that option open if a moving party can show a change in law or a more recent case that might impact the case in some way, i know that i dont have any say here but, I hope that you will at least consider this as you take a look at all the facts in making your decision. I appreciate your time in this matter, May God bless you all.

Sincerely

Earl Truss
